WHO FIRED FIRST SHOT? WITNESSES DIFFER AT TRIAL

DETAILS ON SHOOTING OF PASTOR BROUGHT OUT ON STAND.

GUNS EXHIBITED

Cumberland Courthouse, Virginia, Scene of Sensational Legal Battle.

(By Associated Press.)

Cumberland Court House, Va.—A number of witnesses, in addition to the 12 who told eyewitness stories Wednesday of the killing of the Rev. E. S. Pierce, remained to be heard Thursday in the trial of Larkin C. Garrett, charged with murder in connection with the minister's death.

Three of the 12 Wednesday testified that Garrett fired a pistol during the fight which ended in the Rev. Mr. Pierce's death in front of his home last June. William M. Smith, another witness, testified the minister fired the first shot. On cross examination, he said the first two shots were so nearly simultaneous he was not sure whether the first shot was fired by the slain man or R. O. Garrett, brother of the defendant, who will be tried later on a murder charge. The witness testified he did not see Larkin Garrett fire a shot.

Mr. Smith, who is the county commonwealth's attorney, brought to court two revolvers which he said were in possession of the Garretts and had been kept in his safe untouched, since the hour of the shooting.

When examined, one was found to contain five empty and one loaded shell and the other two empty and four loaded shells. Robert E. Pierce, the minister's son, testified that Larkin Garrett fired a pistol, held by his father, had been accidentally discharged toward the ground when the minister was shot.

Mrs. Pierce said she did not see her husband fire a shot.

DIDN'T KNOW HE WAS MURDERER UNTIL HE CAME TO VISIT TOWN

Centre, Ala.—For a murder, of which he lived twenty-four years in ignorance, Jess Wilkerson must pay with ten years in prison. So decided a jury today in one of the strangest criminal trials on record in this country.

In August, 1909, Wilkerson, then a farmer living near here, engaged in an altercation with John Doss, a neighbor. The quarrel arose over some borrowed tools. Doss, according to Wilkerson's testimony, cursed the defendant and Wilkerson struck him, first with a brick, then with a stick.

Wilkerson already had planned to move to Dallas, Tex., he said. He left the next day after the fight, unaware that he had injured Doss fatally. Doss died three days later. Wilkerson appeared in Gadsden, Ala., last fall and was recognized by officers. He had come back to transact some business and did not know he was being sought for the murder. In Dallas witnesses testified, Wilkerson had gone under the name of Wilburn.

Public Interest First, Is Slogan of Fascisti; Strong Arm Method Used

(Special cable dispatch, copyright 1923, by Janesville Gazette.)

Rome—Just what is Fascism? Many an American here finds himself as much perplexed by the implications of it as his countrymen, 3000 miles away. For the Italian fascists is a combination of economic doctrine, applied by political and military force, and a kind of theory of government, which looks to the regulation of big and little business, capital and labor, not unlike many suggestions put forth in America all the time.

In America many statesmen have wished to make capital and labor get together in the public interests, but public opinion alone has been relied on to force peace. Over here Premier Mussolini has used the "strong arm" and certainly has brought about a change in the atmosphere. No longer is Italy over-run by communists.

WITH THE FARMERS

Farm Bureau Official Information

TOBACCO POOL TO VOTE ON AUGUST 7

All tobacco growers in southern Wisconsin who are members of the Northern Wisconsin Co-operative Tobacco pool are urged to vote in their respective townships Aug. 7. Good attendance is important in these township meetings, as one delegate will be allowed for each 10 growers present.

"It is vital that farmers should attend these meetings and have present the tobacco pool in the morning," says the secretary of the Farm Bureau. "The larger the attendance the more representation for the district meetings to be held Aug. 11." The meeting will be held in the court house, and for those in the northern part of the county, district seven, in Evansville.

The delegates elected at the township or precinct meetings will attend the district meetings. The annual state meeting will be held in Madison Aug. 14. Only delegates with valid credentials will be permitted to vote. At the present time checks are being issued for the final payment of northern grades that have already been sold. About a quarter of a million dollars will be paid to growers at the time of the final year certificates of indebtedness will be issued to growers to cover the one-half cent retained for permanent improvement of the tobacco crop. As soon as possible after the final year a check will be issued to every grower to cover the amount not expended of the one per cent retained for operating expenses.

Tar Surfacing on Gravel Success

Madison.—The state highway commission reports that excellent results are being obtained in Dane county from the application of tar surface to gravel roads. Surfacing is being done at the cost of about $1,000 a mile.

"We are satisfied that, on roads where the traffic reaches an average of 400 vehicles per day and more, the tar surface is a great improvement over the gravel surface. It is a much smoother and more durable surface and gives the public a safer, better and cleaner road," says the commission.

Oconto, Eau Claire and Columbia counties are trying out short stretches of the new surfacing.

CHAMPION SHEEP WILL BE SOLD AUG. 14

The champion Shropshire ram at the Madison state fair in 1922 was among the 100 head of Shropshires which will be offered at public auction sale at the stock pavilion, Madison, Tuesday, Aug. 14, by W. F. Renk & Sons of Sun Prairie, W. C. Miles of Evansville and A. Broughton Sons of Albany. These breeders have shown consistent winners at the largest livestock shows in the middle west.

Two members of the undefeated pen of four lambs, owned by the Renks will also be included. This pen of lambs was shown at some of the largest state fairs and was made champion at all of them. Another topnotcher is a yearling ewe, which as a ewe lamb last year defeated the ewe which was later judged champion in the Shropshire breed at the International livestock exposition.

Offerings will include offspring of the highest show winners, as well as several winners themselves. Twenty head of Hampshire will also be included.

Consignments will include ram and ewe lambs, ewes and stud rams.

DANE COUNTY WILL SHOW COUNTY HERDS AT MADISON FAIR

Dane county will show county herds of Shropshires and Guernseys at the fair to be held in Madison.

The Dane county fair has a class for home breeders, which has encouraged many small breeders to exhibit and buck against outside competition, which is a commendable thing. There will be around 30 head of the Dane county herds exhibit, selected by J. D. Stone, Oreston.

Animals selected for the county exhibit have been chosen from the following herds: Ray Schuster, Arthur Ailing, Stanley Klein, Fox, W. C. Miles, D. Stone, Oreston, Baldwin Brothers and Park Ames, Brooklyn; Lloyd Blaney, Syene; K. L. Hatch and Bigler, Verona; Fehrmann, Sun Prairie; Toepfer and Greiner, Madison; Louis Gray, De Forest; Ogilvie and Henning, Madison; Wild Brothers, Belleville; Jack Stolen, George Lukken, O. A. Lukken & Sons, Mount Horeb.

MILK PRODUCERS PAY OFF ON BONDS

The Milk Producers Marketing company of Chicago, reorganized a few months ago under Farm Bureau auspices, has supplied the farm owners a total $12,000 of the bonds issued to cover its indebtedness to producers. In addition to this, six months' interest on the $386,550 of outstanding bonds was paid. The bonds were drawn by lot as specified by law. They were originally issued to the milk producers, from whom a month's milk check has been withheld to clear the indebtedness of the old marketing company. Country banks in the Chicago milk district, with this tangible evidence that the new marketing company is making good, are now viewing the bonds as desirable securities.

POPULAR NUMBERS PROVE GREAT HIT

Large numbers attended the Bowler City band concert in the court house park Wednesday night in spite of threatening weather. It was one of the best of the season. Popular numbers, "Yes, We Have No Bananas," and "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Sheen" were especially well liked and were greeted with much applause and sounding of automobile horns, while the band was equally good in the more difficult overtures and opera selections. Concerts this year, as a rule, are much better attended than they were last year.

Jefferson Folk Hit by Alleged Grocery Swindle

Jefferson.—Farmers in the vicinity of Jefferson, who ordered groceries from the "Miller Mercantile company" of Milwaukee, are among the many said to have exercised good judgment. James E. Miller, who promised 25 pounds of sugar free with every order of groceries amounting to $5.51. The amount to send no money made the public believe the deal was straight. When the groceries were received and paid for, however, only a small portion of the total order was there. A notice that the remainder of the order and the sugar would be sent by freight in a few days, kept the farmers from making inquiries.

The Miller Mercantile company was advertised through the mails. It is said the company "cleaned up" $30,000 before going out of business. Rural carriers say many of the farmers accepted the sugar bargain.

PUBLIC INTEREST FIRST, IS SLOGAN OF ROME FASCISTI

and reds, with an impotent government at Rome looking on without corrective action.

Western Italy to U. S.

Opinions may differ as to whether fascism would be a good or bad thing for America, but the method used by Mussolini to get power, namely, "murder on Rome" with the help of war veterans behind him would hardly apply in the United States.

Examples of Fascist practice are so numerous that the exercise of governmental power that an analogy with American experience is difficult to give. But let us take the steel industry. Supposing a strike were called. The fascist government tells the workers they must not strike and threatens penalties if they do, but it does not end there. On the contrary the fascist government goes to the employers and tries to effect a settlement. "Look here, these men are striking for more pay and better hours. We shall examine your books and your profits and see if you can increase them."

Strong Arm Methods.

If the investigation proves that better wages and hours should be granted, the fascist government will use strong arm methods with the employers and compel acceptance of the increase. If, in other cases, the workers' demands should prove unjustified, the workers are told to go back to work and keep on, under the penalty of the club.

The government has under arms 300,000 "black shirts," who function as a sort of constabulary, carrying out the orders of the executive, not being especially meticulous about legal technicalities—"the end justifies the means." Frequently the government has forced land owners to increase the wages of labor on the farms, and through the fascist labor organizations, has even decided on the number of men who must be employed by the individual land owners.

In Patriotic Spirit.

All this has had a stimulating effect on industry as a whole, but has left a certain amount of rancor which may be some day the basis for a political counter-attack against the Fascists, though at the moment there is no organized opposition worth mentioning.

It is a mistake, however, to suppose that the Fascist theories have been definitely applied, for fundamentally Fascism is not a scientific doctrine but a feeling of intense patriotism which will stop at nothing to achieve its end. Not only capital and labor but every phase of economic, artistic and intellectual life must be subordinated to what the dictators—the men at the top of the "hierarchy"—construct as "national interest."

Public Interest First.

No class permanently can dominate the government but that interest will be momentarily favored which seems to benefit the nation most. It may on one occasion mean conservatism and on another radicalism. The theory is that the public interest affects the greatest number of people and that highest patriotism is achieved when the people as a whole are contented.

Again and again Mussolini has affirmed that he is a friend of the working class:

"Let them give up their internationalist doctrines and I will see that they get a square deal," he says.

Experiment Still To Go.

The Mussolini doctrine is not intended as a democratic participation by workers in the management, but simply a species of paternalism in which the government decides how much the workers shall get and sees that they get it.

Today the business interests who have just escaped from the real threat of bolshevism are supporting Mussolini's government, not its doctrines, but the experiment has not gone far enough for anyone to say whether it will endure.

FAIR GROUNDS IS SCENE OF HUSTLE

Workmen Busy Completing Arrangements for Big Exposition Opening Tuesday.

With arrangements rapidly nearing completion, Janesville's Big Fair and Livestock Exhibition, Aug. 7, 8, 9, and 10, gives every indication of being the most successful since its inauguration 10 years ago. By Sunday almost an entire city of horsemen, exhibitors and concession renters will be quartered on the grounds.

Workmen have completed cleaning of the exhibit buildings and the interior of most of the structures have been freshly painted and whitewashed, so that exhibitors will be insured of faultless quarters. Although only a few exhibits have as yet been placed in the buildings it is expected that by Monday practically all of the space will be filled. Superintendents of the various departments report the number of exhibitors will greatly exceed that of previous years.

Horse Stables Filled.

Ninety-seven head of horses are now quartered on the grounds and by Tuesday 141 entries will be here. All of the stalls are filled and workmen are engaged in building temporary shelter for additional horses. The two race tracks, the mile and half mile, have been put in excellent shape and are being gone over daily with huge scrapers.

More than 1,000 additional reserved seats have been added with the erection of bleachers in front of the grand stand. Reserved seats for the three days' racing program will be on sale not later than Thursday afternoon.

Parking of automobiles will be in charge of Officer Con O'Leary of the police department who will have a special group of officers on duty during the entire fair period.

Due to the large number of concessions granted, the midway will be extended down the Milwaukee street entrance as far as necessary, so that the fair grounds will be practically every foot of space on the main drive leading to the grand stand has been rented, according to fair officials.

Huge tented restaurants will be erected on the grounds so that ample accommodations will be afforded the crowds which are expected to invade the grounds during the fair period.

All dining tents, lunch booths, refreshment pavilions or other stands will be substantial in structure and neat in appearance. They will be supplied with and sell only good wholesome food at reasonable prices, fair officials promise.

Sanitation to be Enforced.

Purchasers of privileges must keep their spaces in a sanitary condition by removing dirt and refuse, and placing the same in containers which will be collected daily by the sanitary department. Ice cream cans and similar equipment will not be allowed to be stored on the drives.

The setting up of a large stand directly in front of the grand stand will be completed by the latter part of the week. The fair board has completed arrangements with its special acts which will be presented free of charge at both the afternoon and night entertainments. Tents will be installed in the rear of the platform for the performers.

Plan for Night Fair.

Workmen are now installing additional lights so that the grounds will be brilliantly illuminated at the night fair. Special globes will be installed over the performance platform and along the midway which will be open until late in the evening.

Griffey Eligible to Lieutenantcy Upon Graduation

Leon Griffey, 528 South River street, passed the tests for marksman at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds at Aberdeen, Md. He is listed with six other boys from the state university of Madison and took the annual R. O. T. C. course in army ordnance there.

Men from all the larger universities of the country attended the camp and took the course, which is at advanced work in the R. O. T. C. There were 132 men in camp. The proving grounds covers over 130 square miles and is used as a testing grounds for all big guns.

Upon graduating from the university, Griffey will be eligible to a first Lieutenantcy in the R. O. T. C. providing he takes up ordnance, the rest of his time at school. Every student must take at least a year of military training at the university if he has not had that much before going there.

The government allowed five cents a mile for traveling expenses and each man received a private's pay. It costs a day while in camp. They lived in barracks and were provided with all necessary equipment.

The training period lasted from June 14 to July 25, and the first week was given to military practice on the range. The greater part of the time was devoted to the study of ballistics of gunnery and the testing and proving of large and small guns and mortars. Griffey worked on a 14-inch gun, one of the largest, used especially in coast guard forts. Major J. A. Brooks, Jr. of Michigan, had charge of the camp.

"There were some fine boys in the camp," said Griffey, "and I enjoyed it immensely. We did not have to work all the time, and I had a week from Aberdeen managed to see Washington, New York, Buffalo, and some of the other larger cities of the east."

Before you buy any car, see the STUDEBAKER 1924 MODELS

Studebaker presents its complete line of 1924 models, announced a week ago, with the conviction that they will increase the prestige of the name Studebaker which, for 71 years, has stood for the best in transportation, quality and value of product.

Into these 1924 cars are built every proved feature in design that makes for the comfort, convenience and safety of passengers, and many refinements that further enhance the value of a line of cars already highly perfected.

It is common knowledge in the steel industry that Studebaker uses only the highest grades of the finest steels. And the same is true of the electrical equipment, instruments, bearings, batteries, upholstery, finishing paints, tires and accessories used in Studebaker cars.

It is equally well known that Studebaker, with $90,000,000 of actual net assets, including $45,000,000 of plant facilities, is unsurpassed in ability and resources to manufacture economically and give maximum intrinsic value for a given price.

Produced under these favorable conditions, the 1924 Studebakers are distinctly the finest cars and greatest values Studebaker ever offered.

These are not careless statements. They are facts that reflect the honesty and integrity of the manufacturer and its product just as they do the truth of Studebaker advertising.

The public has placed its confidence in Studebaker by accepting these facts, supported by the performance of Studebaker cars in owners' use. That's why Studebaker sales for the past six years have increased progressively each year and sales for the first six months of 1923 of 81,880 cars broke all six months' records.

Studebaker never cheapens quality to meet competition. The name Studebaker stands for satisfaction and service.

EVANSVILLE NEWS

SCOPE BROADENED AT COUNTY FAIR

School Pupils and Women Are Taking Greater Interest in Exposition.

Women and school pupils are taking more interest in the Rock county fair now on at Evansville, than in any previous year. This is the verdict of local women who have been connected with the fair for several years and is borne out by the number and kind of exhibits in the educational and home arts exhibits. If anyone thinks that girls of the present generation are not learning to cook the good things that their mothers made, let him look over the girls' cookery exhibit in the youths' department, which has more and better entries than last year. The exhibit of girls' sewing and other handwork testifies to the fact that not a few girls find time to do exquisite needlework, crocheting and tatting.

Many Original Articles.

The number of exhibits in the boys' handicraft and gardening section is not large but includes articles of interest. Perhaps the most original exhibit is the "Minute Moving" machine made by a boy, Brown from a cigar box, neatly painted and lettered. Louis Devine has a well-made tabernacle on exhibit. The Evansville school exhibit is pronounced as being the most complete and interesting that has ever been assembled at the fair. Beautifully made booklets tell stories of projects embracing the study of Indian life, Wisconsin, transportation, letter writing and other subjects. These projects correlated work in art and English and included lessons in history and geography.

Prarie School Exhibit.
Pleasant Prairie school, town of Union, has an exhibit of such interesting and scope as to make one regret that so proficient a teacher as Grace Leary should leave the profession. The exhibit speaks well of the ability of the pupils. This exhibit includes a variety of handicraft articles such as toys, bird-houses, small bench, coat hangers, games, sewing, etc. Other prairie schools have some good things on exhibit in the general rural school section.

In the adult section the most outstanding exhibit is the array of oil and water color pictures. This is said to include few pictures that have been exhibited before and a large number of entries that in any previous year. The exhibit is seen in the women's handicraft department. Miss Dorothy Axell's exhibit of 100 and 150 silk scarves has aroused much comment.

Articles for Home.
There are some very attractive knitted things, a stonelled rag rug, a lovely silk centerpiece, several pretty embroidered and appliqued bedspreads, and all sorts of other articles made to beautify the home. Luster vases and decorated tin are new articles in the home article section. A glance at the women's cookery exhibit is enough to make one's mouth water, and proves that Rock county has a good number of housewives to whom this ancient art is not obsolete.

Miss Anna Luetscher, county nurse, is there in her own little corner with a display of her own work to weigh measure and otherwise inspect babies whose mothers want to find out more about how to keep the little ones well. Ten babies were examined the first day, and larger numbers were expected by Miss Luetscher on the succeeding days.

Entry Fees Larger.
While accurate figures have not been given out, it was stated that entry fees received this year are at least $100 in excess of the amount received last year. Entries are listed from all parts of Rock county and from many points in adjoining counties. Among the latter are Roscoe, Ill., and Jefferson, with many entries from Albany and Brodhead.

MARK CONCRETE ROADS FOR SAFETY

50 Miles of Cement In County Being Relined as Accident Safeguard.

Rock county concrete highways are being marked this week with the black line in the center by the county highway commission. A large force of men and machinery is doing the work. The outfit worked on highway 61 between Beloit and Clinton Wednesday morning and started on highway 10 between Jansville and Beloit Thursday. Route 100, the Edgerton road, will be marked in the near future.

The disappearance of the lines marked a year ago on highway construction has led to many accidents. It is hoped this new measure of safety will reduce the number and lead to more careful driving. Night driving especially will be safer hereafter.

GOVERNOR TRYING TO "COVER UP" IS SEVERSON STAND

opposed an investigation because of what he says would have been a real investigation to the administration.

Senator Severson declared Thursday that he is prepared to give full facts to the committee investigating body. He still takes the position that there should be a legislative investigation.

Rumors, circulated about the capitol for months past, have concerned incidents in which state officials and girls have been involved.

There are other rumors of drinking parties involving state officials, that led to a resolution in the legislature asking an investigation.

Legislative Stand.
At the time during the legislature, the report was published that a member of the assembly was found by the night watchman in a state office in the company of a girl, it was a mere whisper demand for an inquiry, but it did not quickly as it sprang into being.

Then came a report of a certain party involving at least two prominent state officials, a drinking party, and a girl, and the matter was in the capitol.

Other stories from a number of sources have told of liquor parties in the capitol, which have never been denied. A number of well known state officials were involved.

Citizens Ask Probe.

These alleged "parties" caused the Madison law enforcement committee of 10, to ask an investigation by the legislature and led the committee on legislative procedure of the senate to introduce a resolution recommending for adoption asking an inquiry. The resolution was passed by one vote.

Senator Severson has demanded an investigation from the start. Governor Blaine has consistently taken the position that proof should be laid before any improper activities of state officials and that he will act. His office claims he has tried to investigate charges but without result, and that he is interested in receiving any information.

police. Nye was reached about the time a physical check was made.

According to Policeman E. Prindagast, pillows on the window ledge of Nye's room indicated that he had walked on the broad sill and rolled out.

The body was taken to the Central Undertaking establishment, 422 South Clark street, to await inspection by the coroner.

Investigation of Mr. Nye's room, showed that the door was locked from the inside. Mr. Nye's effects were in the room.

CURZON SEES NO CHANCE OF EARLY

ish separation note seemed to hold out some prospect of settlement of the Ruhr situation in the near future, the opening of a discussion regarding reparations.

Mr. Baldwin reviewed the British attitude toward Germany's situation. He said the British government had expressed the opinion that, while nothing should be done which would be inconsistent with the stipulations of the Versailles treaty, advance could be derived if impartial experts cooperating with the reparations commission, should examine Germany's capacity to pay.

International Control.

The reply also pointed out that Mr. Baldwin said that the economic value of such a step must largely depend upon factors not mentioned in the German memorandum, such as stabilizing the mark, the budget, and that no guarantee could be effective unless provision was made for some form of international control over the German financial administration.

"The reply ended," continued the prime minister, "by advising the German government that if it desired a resumption of the inquiry to withdraw without further delay the ordinances and decrees which organized and fomented the policy of passive resistance, and to unequivocally disavow the acts of violence and sabotage which in some cases had accompanied the resistance."

Prompt Action Urged.

"The reply expressed the belief that such action on the part of Germany would involve reconsideration by the occupying powers of the conditions of their occupation and the gradual return to the normal features of industrial life in the Ruhr."

"In the covering with which this draft reply was sent, the allied governments, the British government, gave a fuller explanation of the views which they held on all these points, and they urged upon their allies that an interlarded discussion should be opened, rather than a long and fruitless, whether by conference or otherwise, for the purpose of elaborating a comprehensive plan for a general and financial settlement."

NATIONS FARTHER APART THAN WOULD REALIZED

(By Associated Press.)

London.—The British and French stand even further apart in their attitudes toward Germany than the British people and probably the world at large have understood. This seems to be the conclusion drawn from the explanations Premier Baldwin and Lord Curzon, foreign secretary, gave parliament Thursday of the position resulting from the latest British note to Germany.

The British spokesman acknowledged the cordial spirit in which the allies had worded their communications.

The British government proposes to publish its own share of the correspondence and is asking France and Belgium for permission to publish their replies. This publication, it is indicated, will constitute an appeal to the public opinion of the world.

Points Are Revealed.

Some of the points in the proposed British plans were revealed in the ministerial statement. One was that Great Britain had proposed some form of international control over the German financial administration; also that she had put forward a proposal for an impartial body of experts, cooperating with the reparations commission, in Germany's capacity to pay.

Great Britain, it was revealed, had proposed to tell the Germans that if they could not cause the passive resistance there would be at least a reconsideration of the conditions of the Ruhr occupation, permitting a gradual return to normal industrial life.

The speakers' audience were intent, but unimpressed.

K. of C. Dances.—Twenty couples attended the dancing party at the K. of C. club house, Wednesday night, given by the Knights in honor of the Madison kitten ball team. The Lakota orchestra played. A party of young people from Madison attended.

Mrs. R. E. Rogers. 203 South Franklin street, is confined to her home with an attack of appendicitis.

SPONTANEOUS FIRE LOSS IS HEAVY

Avoid Storing Oily Cloths to Avert Deadly Blazes Is Warning.

So often is the cause of a fire given as spontaneous combustion, that the public is led to believe that such a thing is a mystery. It is not. Through J. E. Florin, superintendent of fire prevention, has issued a bulletin detailing the causes of such ignitions and explaining how they can be avoided. A copy has been received by Fire Chief C. J. Murphy who urges that citizens make every possible effort to remove existing dangers.

"Spontaneous combustion," says the bulletin, "is the ignition of a substance by internal development of heat and without external contact with a flame or other source of heat. Spontaneous ignition often takes place in waste, rags, cloths, cotton, sawdust and other substances impregnated with oil."

"Lined and other vegetable and animal oils and fats especially absorb oxygen quite rapidly and thus sufficient heat is produced to set the oily substance on fire."

"Such fires often occur in cellars, attics, closets, warehouses, shops and other out-of-way places, not under constant observation, and spread rapidly, fed by highly combustible materials. Often such fires have a good start before they are discovered and cause much damage."

Danger in New Buildings.

"New schools, churches, factories and residences and others undergoing construction are especially subject to the danger of fires, because some painter or house keeper has left some oily waste, paint rag or oily mop in contact with woodwork or combustible material."

"The prevention of such fires is simple and inexpensive. Care and good house keeping will make these fires almost impossible."

"Oily waste and rags used during the day should be kept in standard, self-closing metal waste cans, and should be burned or otherwise destroyed at the end of each day."

"Oily metal filings, borings and cuttings, leather scraps and excelsior, cloths or rags used for rubbing painted or varnished furniture or for cleaning machinery should be kept in a self-closing metal waste can, and should be burned or otherwise destroyed at the end of each day."

"Most sweeping compounds contain oil and the only safe storage is in a self-closing metal waste can, and should be burned or otherwise destroyed at the end of each day."

"Improperly stored hay and damp grain are subject to spontaneous ignition. Proper curing and drying and good ventilation of haystacks and granaries is the remedy."

HARDING RECOVERY
WILL TAKE TIME,
PHYSICIANS WARN

much time, all that General Sawyer would say was:

"You never can elect a time to be a sick man. You likewise never can elect a time to be well."

Progress Continues.

One thing was certain, and that was that the president was making progress toward recovery at the beginning of the day. He obtained considerable sleep during the night and, just before he dropped off to sleep, General Sawyer "took stock" as he phrased it, and found all indications favorable. Among these was a normal temperature, less labored and more regular breathing, and a pulse that, while still rather high, seemed to show no indications of increasing.

General Sawyer demonstrated his own confidence in the favorableness of the indications by going out for an automobile ride. The nurse, Miss Ruth Powderly, during the evening left the hotel for the first time since the president was brought here Sunday. Mrs. Harding has not been out since the hotel since she entered it Sunday.

Recovery to Be Slow.

Warning was given by General Sawyer Wednesday night and repeated by one or two of the other doctors that too rapid recovery should not be expected. General Sawyer asked that it be remembered that the president will be a "sick man" and also that there might be some "ups and downs." For these reasons, it appeared the physicians would be reluctant to approve at this time any plan for the future with respect to either remaining in San Francisco or leaving the city for some nearby place of quiet, or to returning to Washington.

Must Feel Wry.

"We have got to feel our way along," said Dr. Sawyer, and that seemed to epitomize the feeling of other physicians. Mrs. Harding and the president's friends are expected to be asked Dr. Sawyer Wednesday if he thought it would be possible to start for Washington Sunday. Whatever the answer the doctor made at that time, he left no doubt that he considered it out of the question.

IMPROVEMENT INDICATED.

BY DATA OF PHYSICIANS

San Francisco.—The evidence of improvement in President Harding's condition registered since last Monday was given by a compilation of data by the medical staff of his condition, made here Wednesday night. This showed a decrease of 2.4 degrees in his temperature and early rapid increases and then decreases in his pulse rate and respiration. The figures follow:

Senator La Follette Will Block It.

In another column of today's Gazette is a report from a correspondent in St. Paul which would indicate that there is not entire harmony among the radical representatives in the senate over the special session of congress and the wheat price-fixing remedy proposed by them. Information of the past few weeks has been more cheerful to the wheat grower and also to other farmers and producers who have products to sell to the one crop agriculturists. Former secretary of agriculture Meredith takes direct issue with Senator Brookhart of his own state. Meredith says that the farmer will at the present prices get a half million dollars more out of this year's crop than last though the crop is less in quantity. Then, too, there comes the question as to the correctness of the figures of the world crop itself. It looks as though this had been exaggerated. But whatever the actual facts may be, there is this situation: the senators led by Brookhart have determined, apparently for political reasons only, without regard to its economic absurdity and the tremendous load which the people of the nation would assume in so doing, to have a wheat price fixed by the United States and place as a protective measure, a tariff embargo on imports of grain.

Mr. La Follette with an eye single to his own situation here and not being in a wheat state, has seen the folly of the program of Frazier, Johnson and Shipstead and before sailing to Europe declared against both the special session and the price manipulation. Whereupon we are thankful to the senior senator from this state for this safe and sound attitude. This position however may cost him his leadership of the Farmer-Labor radicals and make it necessary for him to enter into a contest for the high place in the radical bloc with Brookhart who is ambitious and has a largely increased size of head since he was entertained by Lenin and Trotsky in Moscow.

The public may rest content that there will be no special session and no government price involving millions of money will be fixed at the regular session especially so long as it is opposed by Senator La Follette.

The Filipino brand of revolutionary fire seems to have been drawn from the wood.

Saving the Human Race.

"Law—Not Lawlessness" might be well used as a slogan for the auto drivers of the nation. "Care—Not Carelessness" will save more people than a futile effort to have the American army and navy cut down to nothing as an example to the world that we are willing to be helpless. Last Sunday there were killed, as the records so far compiled and printed show, 51 people by automobiles at railroad crossings. There may be as many more here and there in the United States whose death has not been reported outside the immediate vicinity in which the accident took place. But in a year at this rate the grand total is something to appal. We talk a lot about it, read the newspaper accounts with a slight thrill of horror, and go on about our business with no idea of checking the danger.

What is to be done? Just let the drivers go along with the fatuous notion that a railroad train or a heavy interurban car can be ousted from the tracks? It is said that to make all railroad tracks arterial highways would be impossible and silly but that the railroad trains should be stopped at highways. Which is still more absurd.

We have nearly 14,000,000 automobiles in operation in the United States. 400,000 of them are in Wisconsin. There are chances of killing a large number of people each day and we have been averaging about 40 so far this year in one way or another. Uniform laws in regard to speeding are needed. Education of the driver heading him about with proper license necessities and drastic punishments may have some effects. The largest and most impressive problem in daily life is the automobile and the questions which arise concerning it and its operation.

It costs so much these days to do anything that the lazy man has a good excuse.

The National Industrial Conference Board says that 100,000 negroes have left the south and come north since the first of year bringing a new economic responsibility and problem. Will we be able to solve it and to absorb in the cities—for few of the colored people have gone to the country—the new population? Those are mostly farm hands but they do not seek northern farm jobs, a fact to be regretted.

Mr. Bok has overlooked a peace prize for the settlement of the never-ending war between the operators and the coal miners.

Chickens come home to roost. When the German chancellor said the Belgian trout was more of a "scrap of paper" he did not think this would ever be said of German money.

Governor Davis of Kansas, farmer and statesman, holding the high average of governors for vetoing bills, says he might be a candidate for the presidency on the democratic ticket. But he

FOREIGN TRADE EXPERTS

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington—The American business man has spent several years and many million dollars in discovering that romance, taken by itself, does not pay dividends. A revival of the foreign trade idea was making itself felt rather strongly when the war came along and suddenly created an enormous overseas demand for American goods. Ships went scurrying to the ends of the earth with the products of American factories and farms. With the end of the war came a reconstruction period in which the demand for American goods continued, although the pay was not so good.

This built up in the American business man a pleasing conception of the romance of foreign trade. But when, in 1920, the world wide business depression came, the American exporter discovered the romance of foreign trade grew anemic. Pennies had to be counted. It was discovered that hit or miss foreign trade did not pay; in fact that in many cases it was a source of heavy loss.

There is at Washington a well organized bureau whose duty it is to show to the American business man that there is a middle course between the gay, adventurous, romantic type of foreign trading, and absolute condemnation of this kind of business enterprise. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce takes the excess romance out of foreign trade, but also extracts excess pessimism. It shows the American merchant that foreign trade is not a fairy tale adventure but keen business competition; it also shows him that, wisely and conservatively conducted, it is a source of legitimate profit. Above all, foreign trade is a balance wheel for the business of the whole country.

Much preliminary work had been done in organizing the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce before the war, but it had lacked the services of a promoter. In Herbert Hoover, present secretary of commerce, and in Dr. Julius Klein, the director of the bureau, it has found the promoter type. These officials, building yet stronger on the old foundation, have made the bureau a live, keen aid to American business men.

The bureau does not encourage Americans to follow the romance of foreign trade. It encourages them to watch the dollar and the romance will take care of itself. The American exporter finds little romance in a deficit or in an uncollectible bill for goods shipped. Know the game before you go into it, is the bureau's advice, but don't stay out because you are prejudiced against it.

It is a fundamental of political economy that communities of people produce goods and trade them off to each other. While they deal in terms of money, still there is no net gain so long as they merely exchange their products among themselves. Also, it is a law of economics that the lowest price of a certain commodity at a certain time must become the price of all there is of that commodity.

If a group of people produces 1,000 bushels of wheat and the consumptive demand is for only 900 bushels, the price of the whole 1,000 bushels will be depressed because there is no market for the extra 100 bushels. That is true of all commodities. It is the job of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce to help the producers sell that extra 100 bushels to another group so that the domestic price will not be depressed below the cost of production. The sale abroad maintains a remunerative price and brings into the country a surplus which represents a national profit because it is over and above what is needed for home consumption.

One of the longest steps toward substituting American business for romance in the foreign trade has been the establishment of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the commodity divisions. The experts in these divisions know definitely what goods are wanted in what countries. No American manufacturer, no matter how romantic, probably would ever send a cargo of ice cream to the people of Greenland. Yet Americans have been known to send large shipments of shoes to Central American countries, which, from the point of view of the exporters, is just about as absurd. A few people, mostly foreigners or of foreign stock, do wear shoes in Central America, but the mass of the population has no use for them. This is the sort of information the bureau stands ready to give and does give daily. Thousands of letters and telegrams pour into the bureau every day and are answered. For instance, if an American automobile manufacturer doesn't know that cars to be shipped to England should have right hand drive because people there drive on the left side of the road, he can find out from the bureau.

The American business man, making inquiries of the bureau will find a few government clerks bound up in red tape. He will find himself referred to the commodity division that fits his case, whether he manufactures farm tractors or embroidery needles and there he will find experts, formerly in business in his own trade, who speak his language, know his trade terms and, in addition, know how and where to sell such goods abroad. He will find a division of commercial laws which will tell him about the regulations and native laws governing deliveries, collections and such information for any country in the world. He can find out what the tariff is on a consignment of sewing machines or butter churns or anything else to any country in the world.

Furthermore, the bureau will assist him in finding out if the foreign merchant to whom he wants to ship goods is able to pay for them. With its trade commissioners, commercial attaches and various other agents scattered over the world, it can ascertain on short notice the market prices, state of stocks and condition of trade anywhere on the globe. These agents also constantly are on the lookout for orders for American concerns in these foreign countries. They are not authorized to take orders directly themselves, but they are constantly active in putting the American salesmen in touch with likely buyers. When they learn that a merchant is in the market for some sort of goods, the information is sent immediately to Washington whence it is distributed among the makers of the particular goods desired.

does not believe in price fixing for the farmer any more than he does for the grocer and milliner. We certainly disagree with him. We hope a special session of congress will be called before fall hats get on sale. Prices of women's headgear should by all means be fixed by statute. We are organizing a bloc for this purpose.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke says the art of conversation has been lost. He ought to be around when two members of the recent legislature are talking.

True to form, Villa, like all bandits with easy money, spent his fortune stolen and looted from individuals, churches and public institutions.

In the meantime, we talk a lot about reforms and passing laws but the cut over lands of Wisconsin, barren wastes not fit for farming, might be reforested and a source of future wealth be established. That would take a number of the "best minds" off the subject of revolution.

There are so many people with the brand of Cain in Chicago that the city ought to get its trade mark registered.

JUST FOLKS

TEMPTATION
There's a lake outside my window that is laughing at the sky.
And from the cliffs along the coast the swift-winged swallows fly.
The sky is blue this morning and the sun is tempting too.
But I am at my table with a lot of work to do.
I know the fish are biting for I saw Paul Strasburg come.
With a string of bass he'd taken from this region of the Thumb.
And off yonder in the distance I can see a boat or two.
But a fellow can't go fishing with a lot of work to do.

There's a pine woods nearby singing now its softest melodies
And I catch the faintest humming of their music on the breeze;
I could spend the day exploring nature's wonders ever new.
But instead I'm at my table with a lot of work to do.

Should the good Lord in the future ever look at me and say:
That all important question: "Was I faithful to my task?"
I shall answer, one glad summer in a place He'd built for play,
I'd a lot of work before me, and I didn't run away.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

Automobile concerns often get letters from "satisfied owners," but people who sell garden seeds do not so frequently get letters from "satisfied gardeners." One seed concern, which gets out a magnificent catalogue, recently received a letter from a customer and the following extracts are taken from it:

"The tomato plants would have been a great success if I could have induced them to bloom, but they merely grew up and passed away without issue, as they were."

"The red globe beets, so prettily pictured on the package, turned out to be morning glory plants, which spread into my lettuce bed and choked the lettuce heads until they become black in the face."

"Something spoiled the string beans. Instead of growing in strings they grew in pods and, unable to get air, soon died."

"My potatoes grew up and fell over and bloomed, and then the blossoms died and not a potato appeared. The vines, though, were so long as they merely exchanged their products among themselves. Also, it is a law of economics that the lowest price of a certain commodity at a certain time must become the price of all there is of that commodity."

Another mystery is why they always say a fireproof building is "absolutely fireproof."

Who's Who Today

GEORGE F. BAKER

On July 26 Wall street was bedecked with flags in honor of George F. Baker, chairman of the First National Bank of New York, who has served sixty years with that institution. A series of congratulations came from all over the world. His offices were heaped with flowers and scorns of his friends and business associates called to wish him well. Now eighty-three years old, Mr. Baker established the First National Bank in 1837. He is considered one of the most successful men in Wall street, his fortune being estimated as high as $200,000,000. In addition to his bank duties, which have not slackened with the years, he maintains close touch with a score of large corporations of which he is a director, including the United States Steel Corporation, is a director in numerous other enterprises called to wish him well. He is a native of Troy, New York, and is a member of the New York Yacht club. Although many of his gifts to charities and public institutions have been made anonymously, it is known that he has given away millions for the public benefit.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

August 2, 1883—"There will be a public meeting here tonight to judge public opinion on the matter of selling a private insane asylum in this city. It would bring considerable money into the city. Annual encampment of the First Regiment, Wisconsin National Guards, here next week, promises to be the best in years."

THIRTY YEARS AGO

August 2, 1893—"Word has been received from the Y. M. C. A. building, corner of West Milwaukee and North High streets, has been stopped by the city, as it is said it is considerably over the street line. Contractors say that the lines on both streets are correct, but that it is the tower on the corners that juts out too far."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

August 2, 1903—"A very imposing new patrol wagon, costing the city $2,100, was received this morning and was eagerly inspected by large crowds. Something imposing was expected, but the patrol car was a disappointment. Mr. Walker, of the Erie Printing company, bought all the Wild West show, which went broke in this city, for $12,500."

TEN YEARS AGO

Aug. 2, 1913—"Chautauque opened here a few days ago and is meeting with enormous success. Two of the lecturers, staying at the Myers hotel, were robbed of some $350 last night when they failed to lock their doors properly. Plans for Janesville's new bridge will probably be submitted to the war department at once."

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

IS LIVER FOOD?
In the days that, alas, are gone, when one could get round steak (and round is the most nutritious steak there is) for a quarter—and it was very dear at that price if one had no quarrel with the word "steak"—one could get some liver for nothing, the butcher contributing the paper and string and his smiles for the sole purpose of fattening a customer's liver. Now one wants some liver, one pays 15 to 20 cents a pound for it and explains to the bored meat-market man that it is for the liver.
Liver is great stuff for young cats, young lions, young trout, and young children to grow on. Gated liver is fed every few hours to the young trout in hatcheries and you can actually see them growing on it. Predatory animals instinctively eat the liver of their prey, sometimes little else from the kill. Until somebody thought of feeding liver to the whelps it was impossible to raise young lions in captivity, for they invariably developed rickets and became feeble and weak. Now the beasts unite to exhibit. But now lions are successfully reared in zoological gardens, where they get not merely meat with large bones attached which they cannot gnaw, but liver, fat and bone which they can eat without choking, with occasional small animals such as rabbits or cats, which they can eat entirely.

When we used to get liver for nothing we imagined it was good for nothing. People are always like that. Right now a lot of folks imagine that porthouse and other expensive cuts of meat are better than the cheaper cuts, whereas the reverse is more often true. We used to feel a little ashamed to buy it at its actual value.
Liver contains something which liver yields about 350 calories of energy, and a pound of beefsteak yields about the same amount of energy. Therefore a man gets all the nourishment and strength out of liver that he can get out of beefsteak.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Heard You the First Time.
Two weeks ago I asked you for some suggestions on the development of certain parts of the body and in reply I received an interesting letter about the care of the hair. (Miss B. M.)
Answer—The hair is a part of the body so you can't call it an inexact error. However, mistakes will happen in the best regulated offices. I shall repeat your question, anything you did not ask for. Please return the letter which you received by mail and repeat your question so that I may correct the mistake, if possible.

Schoolgirl's Gossip.
Please state what the name of the medicine is that prevents goitre in children and how to administer it. (Mrs. A. P.)
Answer—Goitre, in one form or another, is very common in school children. The common mahogany colored tincture of iodine (iodin) is new spelling for iodine) is quite satisfactory. It is a preventive of goitre, which is a swelling of the thyroid gland. The common mahogany colored tincture of iodine (iodin) is new spelling for iodine) is quite satisfactory. Water and Rheumatism.
Do you consider that drinking great quantities of water helps the rheumatism? (Mrs. C. G.)
Answer—No. In the first place there is no such disease as rheumatism. It is a collection of various diseases which masquerade under that title. Should drink a reasonable amount of water for thirst, but not a great quantity. I think.

Any Good Doctor Can Tell.
Please tell me if a good doctor can tell if one has an inward goitre, or must one go to a specialist? (Answer—?)
I know of no kind of specialist who can tell any better than a good physician whether a patient has goitre.

Q. (Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing the Gazette, 201-204 E. Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.)
A. It is not found in the Bible. It is in a book named "The Sentimental Journey," by Lawrence Sterne, a clergyman-author of the 18th century.

Q. What is the meaning of "Urim and Thummim" as used in the Bible?
A. U. The words are translated as "nights and perfection," and it is quite possible that they referred to definite astronomical signs, as they were used as part of the breastplate of the high priests.

Q. How long will it be before any more Poles can come to this country?
A. C. Sufficient visas have been granted to prospective immigrants from Poland to exhaust the quota for the entire fiscal year. It would not be possible for a Pole to obtain a visa for the fiscal year ending June 30. The new quota will go into effect July 1, 1924.

Q. Is it possible to have an ugly nose remedied?
A. The public health service says that the most satisfactory results in so-called remodeling of noses has been achieved by plastic surgeons, by performing what is known as a rhinoplasty. The skin on the bridge of the nose is lifted and corrected, and the bone is supplied to the proper shape and removed in the case of a hump. Cartilage is removed if a hooked nose is the trouble. A small formed piece of light aluminum is firmly strapped over the nose for five days to hold it in the desired shape.

Q. What system is followed in the numbering of spool cotton?
A. W. A. The numbering of cotton thread is based on the size of the thread. The size is determined by the number of turns in a spool of 50 yards. The finished thread was originally 3-2 and carried the yarn size, that is to say, three strands of size 2. The strands were twisted together and called 3-2. When 6-ply or Six-Cord came into use, it was decided not to change the numbering of the thread, but to use the size of the strand to make the No. 50 thread.

BIG BILL Lathrop heads the column Thursday with the feature event of Wisconsin sport from the week. Last Sunday, "Rusty," who twirls for the Appleton club, cracked out a long wallop to the centerfield fence, losing the ball in the tall grass and driving "Rowdy" Elliott, of Samson Tractor and University of Wisconsin fame, in with the winning run. Bill claimed a home run, though the game was over, and the official scorekeeper replied, "nothing doing." In old time method of scoring, Lathrop would not have been given credit for a home run for the run that he could have made had he continued to gallop around the sacks.

BUT BILL does get a home under present day scoring system. Rule 85, section 3-a, covers the case, which is interesting to every player and fan. "If in the last half of the final inning, with the winning run on base, the batsman drives home that run, credit shall be given him for a home run." If he had a lump of paraffin with them to slick the ball and give the pitcher an advantage. Every man on the team had some of that paraffin on his pants and he rubbed the pill on it. In addition, each player had the top of a pop bottle in his back pocket and took a cut in the ball. Lathrop and the rest of the Appleton gang put in a hour but the umpire expressed a quality of dumbness. "So Bill, adapt at the emery ball, likewise supplies 'Little William' with a pop bottle top and for ever after. Now, Green Bay, all, come out and the apple. Moral: play square or the enemy will take unto himself your tricks and mayhap he shall be proven more expert.

REVOLT OF RADICAL SENATORS SEEN IN ST. PAUL MEETING

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

St. Paul, Minn.—More than a mere conference of the four senators who met here this week, the meeting of the four senators, Frazier, Shipstead, Magnus Johnson, and Magnus Johnson, was a challenge to the leadership of Robert M. La Follette. It was a challenge to the leadership of this group of four, with Senator Ladd sure to join, accept the regular order with the republicans or do by himself. The action of the four senators was taken against the expressed opposition of Senator La Follette to the program of price fixing for grain and other farm products and of a special session of congress.

Cannot All Agree
A telegram was sent to the president at San Francisco demanding a special session at once, but the conference did not take action on a plan for wheat price fixing. This was deferred, as no one seemed to know just how it was to be brought about. Senator Frazier of North Dakota, whose adventures into the realm of finance in his state were so disastrous, was of the opinion that the government should fix the price on the entire crop, raise the tariff limit so that no wheat could be bought from the outside, sell what the domestic market could consume, and the government buy the balance at a fixed price. Brookhart was about of the same opinion. The government is to fix a price and raise the tariff so high that the purchase could not go outside.

Shipstead Objects
All four senators have been consistent opponents of the tariff in the form of being partly to blame for the present situation. Shipstead had a little different idea but wanted a price fixed by the government so that it would not be able to raise the price and buyers would have to pay that or get no wheat.

Senator Shipstead was sure the figures of the secretary of agriculture on the surplus were wrong and that the amount over and above domestic consumption would not be more than a hundred million bushels. But it was in opposition to the last word of the Wisconsin senator, who said he was opposed to a special session and a price-fixing law. This is the first definite split in the radical bloc in the senate and may have far-reaching consequences.

Brookhart a Leader
If the Brookhart faction, and Brookhart aspires to leadership because he goes farther than any other senator in his radical notions of legislation, can add to its strength the senator from Montana and Norris of Nebraska, it will override Senator La Follette and be able to dictate to him rather than be dictated to. The presence of Magnus Johnson and his declaration that he wears no man's collar is taken to mean that the radical bloc in the senate will be a permanent one.

Figures
Declaring that Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa never had been known to exhibit sufficient "sustained exertion" to get at facts in any economic problem he had attempted to discuss, B. T. Meredith, formerly secretary of agriculture, pointed out that the grain farmer would receive 500 million dollars more for his crop in 1923 than he did in 1922 in spite of the slump in the price of wheat. "There is a conspiracy among certain factions," Mr. Meredith declared, "to misrepresent and discourage the farmer. Just what the basis of this pernicious scheme remains to be seen, but one of the big purposes is to make political capital out of this deceit which can be used to the advantage of those taking part in it."

VARIED PROGRAMS KEEP UP INTEREST AT PLAYGROUNDS

Playground directors, in most instances, work out weekly programs, giving children, especially younger ones, something to do every day, yet following some general plan from week to week. The following is one arranged by Mrs. Grace High Thwing at the Webster grounds, for small girls and boys:

- 9:30-10:30—Free play, allowing children to do what they wish.
- 10:30-11:30—Games of low organization, such as Boomer, Goos Round, Black and White, Who's Afraid of the Black Man, and Number Tag.
- 11:30-12:30—Girls' social story.
- 12:30-1:30—Boys' social story, song games, such as Humpty Dumpty, London Bridge, Mulberry Bush. Health club work on Monday and Friday.
- 1:30-2:30—Free play and roll call.
- 2:30-3:30—Girls' social story, badge tests for older boys and girls.
- 3:30-4:30—Boys' social story.
- 4:30-5:30—Short stories and games of high organization, such as volleyball, ball, German, bat-ball and dodge-ball.

WILL FINISH 435 MILES OF ROADS

Extensive Concrete Highway Program Progressing at Good Rate.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Madison.—The most extensive program of concrete highway construction ever undertaken by Wisconsin is progressing at a rate that assures completion of nearly 435 miles of hard surfaced roads before the end of the present season, the highway department announced in the quarterly report of the state engineer published today.

Included in the program is 300 miles of hold over work from 1922, the report said. Out of the total over 500 miles of concrete have been laid to the present time, with work now under way at top speed. "Concrete shipments are about on schedule and we have stored almost the entire amount of cement required by our contracts," the highway commission announced. "Labor conditions are better than was anticipated early in the season. Grading and graveling operations are also progressing at a favorable rate. So far there has been no special difficulty in obtaining freight cars—either box cars or gondolas."

In addition to concrete construction, hundreds of miles of gravel roads are being built as part of the program. County bond issues are financing a large part of the concrete construction. Obstacles in Sight.
While this year's road plans have met with unusual success, the highway commission looks for difficulties during the next season, due to veto of the gasoline tax bill with a resultant shortage of funds. County bond issues for the most part run out this year, adding another obstacle to a continuance of the extensive road building.

"The highway funds made available under the weight tax law, are not sufficient to meet the demands," the commission said. "Unless means are found to make available an additional sum between $750,000 and $1,000,000 annually during this and the next fiscal year, by which time the legislation of 1923 will have expired, it appears that some of the federal aid allotted to Wisconsin may be forfeited. The commission has considered various possible methods of meeting this deficiency and is hopeful that the necessary funds will be provided."

"From Coast to Coast" 475 DEPARTMENT STORES OPERATED IN 33 STATES

THIS popular service-and-value-giving system of stores, conceded to be the "World's largest chain department store organization" and an institution of National import, serving more than a million homes from its 475 economy units, is soon to inaugurate an epoch of mercantile achievements in which every man, woman and child in this great community will find much to interest them.

Our enormous buying power enables us to buy at the very lowest prices which we pass on to you. We price every article in our store at the lowest figure which will give us a fair profit, and this price remains the same to all customers at all times.

Time—the Great Maturist

An acorn does not grow into a great, strong, healthy oak tree in a day. The J. C. Penney Company did not become an institution of National importance overnight. Like the growth of the tree, it developed by the process of time, each year becoming stronger with new branches reaching out in every direction. Starting with one small store in Wyoming in 1902, branch stores continued to appear year after year until today—twenty-one years later—there are 475 branches extending their influence and serving the people of 33 States. Of this number, 104 Department Stores are to be the product of this year, many of which have already matured. Mr. J. C. Penney, still active in the affairs of the Company, builded better than he knew when in 1902 he laid the foundation on which eventually was to rest this Nation-wide institution.

It's Not What You Pay That Counts

Human nature is pretty much the same wherever you meet it. It is natural that in buying your personal and home needs you should seek the highest possible value for the price you pay. This applies, no doubt, whether your expenditures are limited or unlimited. After all, it is not what you pay that counts—even though the price be small—but what you get for what you pay! This Company does not ask for the whole trade of this or any other community—it wants only that trade to which it can promise and give the largest value for the dollar. It is not large profits that concern us, but the establishing of a safe and sound foundation for a business here that will be lasting. The enormous purchasing power created by our merchandising requirements for 475 Department Stores makes possible the giving of the unmatched values we do throughout the year.
